

On Highway 35

One dead, five injured in two-car accident

One woman is dead and five persons injured as a result of a two-car collision just south of the Haliburton-Victoria County Line on Highway 35.

Dead is Gertrude Charlotte Jamieson, 67, of Scarborough wife of one of the drivers, William John Jamieson, 68, who was injured.

Also injured were the driver of the other vehicle: Minden lawyer, John Earl Palmer, 51, his wife Marilyn 44, and their two children

John and Thomas, 12 and 14. All of the injured persons were taken to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay by ambulances from Fenelon Falls and Minden.

Police say the accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. Friday at a point near XL Service Station as the north-bound Jamieson vehicle pulled out from the lot and into the pathway of the southbound Palmer car.

Provincial Constable T Craig Black of Cobocok Detachment investigated.

31st Annual

Carnival attracts thousands

The 31st Annual Haliburton Rotary Carnival is now history, and as usual it was a really big show. Thousands of people were in Haliburton for the big event which started at noon and carried on until close to midnight. The weatherman co-operated and the Rotary Club had everything going for them.

This year's carnival saw many changes in the format with a street dance on Highland Street with a rock band from Peterborough "Dino and the Capris". For some reason the street dance was a complete flop as many thought they should get in for free.

The booths and games of chance were moved from the arena to the L.C.B.O. parking lot and the midway was located in its usual spot at the fairgrounds.

The big carnival started at noon when the giant midway swung into action and shortly after the chicken bar-b-que was open for business.

Everyone seemed to really be hungry and thirsty at this year's carnival as the pop booth sold out and the chicken-bar-b-que and the hamburger and hot dog stands did a terrific business.

The Splash game was a hit as usual and Garnet Graham of Fenelon Falls also made a big hit with the crowd as the people were trying very hard to see that he hit the water barrel.

The monster parade, led by the Haliburton Legion Pipe Band kicked off at 7:15 p.m. and it drew the usual thousands of people who lined the streets for what we think is one of the best small town parades in Ontario.

The Best Entry award in the parade and the Wig-A-Mog trophy went to the Haliburton Lumber and Enterprises Limited who came up with a terrific effort on their float.

The following is a list of the parade winners:

Rotary Carnival highlights

The Haliburton Rotary Club came up with another one of its top-rate parades which was about a mile long and we thought that the quality of the floats was better than usual.

For next year's parade we hope that some kind of an effort will be made to keep children back on the curbs. Luckily no one was hurt, but in some places it was a mob scene.

Don Hilliard of Haliburton Public Relations has been looking all week around Haliburton for a rather large size girdle and brassiere. No they aren't his, but were on his float entered in the parade. His "Hickie the Clown" float was "Hickie" riding a well decorated Mini-Bike, pulling a mini-trail with a clothes line with Hickie's costumes for those other parties.

The float had some problems on Station Street, and it appears that as it was being repaired some one ran off with some of "Hickie's" costumes which were on loan from Bernsteins Department Store. "Hickie" says he will not be able to accept the many streaking parties he has been invited to until he replaces the wardrobe.

The parade had plenty of music with the Haliburton Legion Pipe Band, the Lindsay Kinsman Band, the MacDonald Export Sound Truck and the band on the Birch Point Lodge Float which added a great deal to the parade.

We never saw so many unlicensed vehicles in town in our lives and the congenial O.P.P. chuckled, but - don't try it today.

We always knew that Martin Lumber Co Ltd. in Harcourt was a big company, but it didn't strike home until we saw its large float in the parade. The float was so big that it had some difficulty in getting around some of the sharp corners on the parade route.

Another float had trouble on the black bridge on Highland Street it was too high for the top of the bridge and it had to be pushed back and put on the sidelines.

We were certainly pleased to see so many out-of-town floats participating in this year's parade.

Hartwick fans 15 to even series

After a horrendous opening game in Fenelon Falls, where they fell 21-7, Gull River bounced back with one of the finest games seen in this area this year.

On Monday evening Gull River Buildall journeyed to Fenelon Falls for their first game in the OASA Intermediate C series with the Falls.

The game was a total disaster from the fourth inning on as our local fellows just plain fell apart in an easy 21-7 victory for Fenelon.

The second game was the exact opposite of the first, with Rick Hartwick the story of the game.

Rick landed in Toronto at 5 pm after a week in England on holidays. When his parents, who picked him up told him there was a game in Haliburton at 8 pm he arrived fifteen minutes before game time and took the field at shortstop. This is rare athlete indeed.

In the second inning with one out starting pitcher Craig Stamp was ordered from the mound by the umpires for supposedly illegal pitching. This is where Rick took over. In the next seven and two-thirds innings, Rick gave up one run on three hits, walked one and struck out fifteen, to win 6-1 and even the series with Fenelon. Rick pitched this type of game without having touched a ball in twenty-six days. Incredible!

The game was scoreless when Gull River came to bat in the bottom of the fifth. Paul Sisson started things off with a single. Bob Austin and Jim Burk then grounded out, bringing up pinch-hitter Neil Burk who singled and Paul scored, 1-0. Gary McKnight then drew a walk and both he and Neil moved to second and third on a passed ball. Cliff Burke then tripled to right, 3-0. The inning ended 4-0 when Rick Hartwick singled to score Cliff and Craig Stamp flied out.

The Builders rounded out their scoring in the sixth when Paul Sisson walked and came home on Bob

PONTYPOOL WINS IN STRAIGHT GAMES

The Dominion Hotel Shufflers had a rough time of it with Pontypool in OASA Intermediate C action last week.

The first game was played here in Minden on Monday evening and Pontypool came up with nine first inning runs to win going away 15-2. Pontypool also had three one runs in this game.

The second game in Pontypool Thursday was not much better as errors by Donimion led to their downfall 12-4 and an early exit from the play-offs.

Gull River takes lead

Gull River Buildall opened up a one game lead in their best four of seven series with West Guilford Redmen on Sunday in Guilford, with a come from behind 7-5 victory.

The Builders went in front 2-0 in the first inning on four straight singles, however, the Redmen came back with four in the bottom of the inning, capped by a two-run homer by Paul Sisson. Guilford went ahead 5-2 in the second before Gull River settled down and started the climb back to win.

Rick Hartwick made it 5-3 in the third when he singled, stole second third and home. Dough Heath singled, Cliff Burke was safe at first on an infield hit, Neil Burk walked. Doug was then brought home on Al Trepanier's fly ball. In the sixth Wayne Johnson doubled and stole third and home. George Simmons then put the Builders ahead when he walked and came all the way home when the Redmen tried to pick him off second only to have the ball go all the way to the center field fence. The Builders final run came when Heath walked took second on a ground out, stole third and home.

Hartwick, playing his second game in twelve hours, picked up the victory, allowing five runs on eleven hits, no walks and fanned ten. Craig Stamp took the loss for Redmen, giving up seven runs on eight hits, five walks and struck out four.

DOMINION DOWNS CRIPPLED HUSKIES

With Havan Cookout for the season with a badly sprained ankle and Mark Schell away working, the Haliburton Huskies appear to be easy pickings for the injury free Dominion Hotel Shufflers. The Shufflers defeated the defending Champions 12-3 in the opening game of their best four of seven series here in Minden Sunday evening.

Dominion held a slim 3-2 lead in the fourth but the Shufflers bats came alive in the fifth when they scored four times and then put the game out of reach in the sixth with five more runs, including Mike Jackson's three run homer.

Jack Snell picked up the win for Domion while Gary McKnight suffered the loss for Huskies.

The next two games in local senior play-off action will take place in Minden and Haliburton. Watch for Ball Posters for dates and times.

News Letter

On July 31 Haliburton visited Gooderham for a ball game that only lasted five innings. Gooderham won by a score of 28-8. The winning pitcher was Joan Riel and the losing pitcher was Diana Rosenberg.

Dr. Raymond Delong of Edmonton, Alberta, Dr and Mrs David Delong of Barrie, Ontario, Miss Nancy Gimbut of Chicago, Illinois and mother Delong of Toronto are spending their family reunion at their parents' cottage on Loon Lake. It's a shame Mr W. G. Delong who is in Saudi, Arabia can not join them.

There must be a lot of money around as the Minden Rotary Carnival Committee tell us that they took in more money at their Carnival than ever before. They were away up this year.

The August Civic Holiday in the Municipality of Dysart et al will be held on Monday, September 16.

The Summer Theatre play at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School this Monday night, August 19 is "The Secret of the Spyglass by William Pendergrast. A hilarious play about women river pirates on the St. Lawrence River in the early 1800's. It makes a delightful switch to a different type of comedy, a send up of Canadian history.

Stopping is controlled by friction. When a vehicle is travelling over an uneven surface, tires spend part of the time off that surface, thus lessening the amount of friction and thereby increasing the stopping distance considerably in some instances, states the Ontario Safety League.

The past few weeks have seen many Centennial events being held here in Haliburton County. There have been so many one would wonder how people would have the time to attend them all.

People seem to really like to buy tickets on a car. Both the Rotary Club and the Legion at Haliburton had terrific success in selling their car tickets this year.

The Haliburton School of Fine Arts Teens and Pre-teens Pottery Course at the Lakeview Centre in Haliburton which started on Monday will end this Friday August 16.

Plans are pushing right ahead for the Haliburton Rotary Clubs Festacolor which is scheduled for Haliburton for Saturday, September 28.

THE INTERNATIONAL MUSEUM OF CANOES AND KAYAKS located on the grounds of CAMP KANDALORE, Township of Stanhope

About twenty years ago a group of interested persons fostered the idea of creating a museum in Haliburton County comprised of Historical canoes, kayaks, paddles, etc. The impetus towards this end was in the form of a donation of a bass-wood dug-out canoe by Professor M.G. Griffiths of the University of Toronto.

From this donation has grown a collection of approximately two hundred craft, either presently at hand or promised, from many parts of the world. Included are craft of many types and for many uses, such as bark, dugout, all-wood, canvas covered and racing canoes, plus kayaks, rowing craft, and special purpose canoes, such as freight and war varieties. Complementing this is a large array of oars and paddles.

Appropriately enough, a wood carving of Tchi-mose, sea monster of Indian legendry, stands at the entrance to the two-storied, cross-shaped structure which houses the unique collection. The Museum is open to the public from May to October and also boasts a Heritage Trail.

Haliburton Highlights

We have just been informed that up to the first day of August over 1500 people have visited the Museum in Haliburton.

There is no doubt about it, there is lots of money around. To prove this point one only needs to look at financial results of both the Minden and Haliburton Rotary Carnivals.

We are sorry to report that the Laundromat in Haliburton is closed. The sign on the door states that it is due to water problems.

This coming Thursday evening is Club Assembly night for the Haliburton Rotarians. At this time the reports of the various committees will be presented outlining the future activities of each committee.

When the local municipal council decide to put more street lights in Haliburton we hope they will consider placing some on Station Street which at present is very poorly lit.

Letters to the editor

To the editor:

I am quite in agreement with your editorial of last week and I thank you for the kind words re the efforts of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association to improve facilities for winter recreation and thereby promote a healthier winter commerce in the area. Perhaps this is a good time to elaborate on some of the aspirations of the Association for future snowmobiling seasons. It is only three months to first snowfall.

You correctly stated that a grooming machine was purchased last year, but your implication that we are now reaping the results of that purchase could almost be construed as an overstatement. Certainly some of the businesses who contributed may well be wondering whether they got their money's worth. I refer to the fact that, last year, the Association depended upon volunteer labour for all operation of the equipment with the result being one Alpine and drag standing idle on an average of six days per week. This situation can, and must, be corrected by the provision of an operating fund, to cover operators salaries and the upkeep of the machine, to keep it on the trails a minimum of five days (better still, five nights) a week, from mid-December to late March. With full-time operation it will thus be possible to cover a much larger area in the County regularly. Obviously, to adequately groom the trails of the entire region will require additional equipment, equipment that neither the HCSA nor its supporting businesses can yet afford but which will be acquired piece by piece as the need for it grows.

It is my view, and I believe it is widely shared, that a large portion of the funding for organizations such as the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association should come out of snowmobile registrations. Our Government has not yet seen fit to provide any money locally. I would like to impress upon all who snowmobile here that the HCSA is a SNOWMOBILER'S organization. It is NOT a businessmen's association. The business community has supported our efforts handsomely in the past, and I anticipate it will continue to do so, but our efforts to improve snowmobiling facilities are primarily intended for the benefit of snowmobilers, and snowmobilers' support has been less than encouraging. Increasing business activity is an inevitable and thoroughly welcomed rip-off.

There were by actual count 1,622 snowmobiles registered in Haliburton County in the 1972-73 season. There were, by estimate, at least 400 used here, but registered elsewhere. Allowing a nominal increase of five percent per year, the 74-75 figure will total about 2,400. To be truly effective in its efforts, including (and particularly) its efforts to get help from the Government, the HCSA must represent 80 percent of these. In round figures, that is 2,000 members. Last year we managed to reach 225.

To the editor:

I regret very much indeed that the Minister of Natural Resources has decided to open a bow and arrow hunting season for the fall of 1974 in Dufferin County.

There is no shadow of doubt that bow and arrow hunting exposes the animals concerned to a greater degree of unnecessary suffering than the use of traditional firearms. One of the basic reasons for the development of the firearm was to improve the effectiveness of the weapon it replaced, i.e., the bow and arrow. If the bow and arrow had been an effective weapon, the rifle might not exist today.

If anyone chooses to kill an animal, whether for pleasure or for food, he should have the responsibility, both legally and morally, to do it in the most humane way.

Obviously, arrows can strike an animal in a non-lethal position, and there is plenty of evidence to show that these arrows are carried by the animals for a considerable length of time. Often the animal will finally die from poison or other long-term effects from the wound. In the meantime, the animal suffers to a greater or lesser degree.

I recommend that residents of this area post No Hunting signs on their property, and demand that the municipalities refuse to sanction an open deer season. You cannot balance nature with a bow and arrow. Surely we must realize the futility of killing for pleasure, especially when such an inhumane method is used.

I cannot help feeling that anybody who enjoys dressing up as a would-be Robin Hood and shooting animals with a bow and arrow must be extremely immature.

As an alternative, therefore, to bow and arrow hunting in Dufferin County, may I recommend an afternoon at the children's playground at Ontario Place.

Rotary Club can't give everything away

The 1974 Haliburton Rotary Carnival is now history and the critics are out explaining what should have been done and where the mistakes were made. We have to agree that the street dance was a complete flop.

After bringing in a top-rate rock group the people just didn't go for it and they stayed out of the dance area in droves. Many felt after it was all over that the admission price was too high and that the street dance should have been free. The Rotary Club are out on this evening to make money and how can you pay the band and let everyone in for nothing. It just can't be done.

The Carnival as a whole was a success, but the only unfortunate thing about this whole affair is the fact that many people come in and watch the parade and after it is over drive straight home without leaving the Rotary Club with a cent of money. In other words they are free loaders who expect to see a gala extravaganza, but don't want to pay anything toward it. It is after this parade that the Rotary Club must make their money.

We are the first to admit that some changes for this summer carnival are in order, but let us make it quite clear that the Rotary Club can't give everything away for nothing. They must make money to meet their commitments.

OPP station needed in Village of Haliburton

A few years back the village of Haliburton had two or three OPP officers stationed in Haliburton with an office. Since that time with the population growing every day there is no OPP office in Haliburton and if we need assistance a call has to be made to Minden which is sixteen miles away. If there is an accident in Haliburton or in the near vicinity sometimes people can wait up to an hour before an officer arrives from Minden. Why should there be this waiting period?

It seems slightly ridiculous to us when you consider the fact that Haliburton has one of the largest populations of many villages in Haliburton County and geographically we are right in the centre of the Highlands of Haliburton and still do not have an OPP office or men stationed here to look after it.

Another matter that sticks in our crop is the fact that when these cruisers come up from Minden the officers in most cases cruise around looking for traffic violations which is fine, but in our opinion they should get out of these cruisers from time to time and start walking the streets in the village because there are more problems to be solved than traffic violations.

It is time for action and we agree with most of the citizens in Haliburton in the fact that Haliburton should without a doubt have an OPP office in Haliburton with men stationed here.

ABOUT MY WIFE AND COCA-COLA

I have a number of things to be disposed of this week, and the first is my wife.

Don't worry, I'm not going to put her in the basement and cover her with fresh cement. That's old-fashioned, and you usually get caught.

I'm going to put her in the attic, with a gag in her mouth, rolled up in a piece of that roofing that will be left over after our shingling job, which she ordered.

Now, I've nothing against women, particularly, though I have generally, and nothing against roofers at all, though they charge too much and get you involved in all sorts of side issues like louvres and insulation and squirrels.

I know what a squirrel is, and I've a vague idea about insulation, but I haven't a clue about louvres. I thought it was some kind of an art gallery in Paris, but it turns out to be a couple of holes up around the roof so the air can circulate.

It's not that my wife has an extra big mouth for a woman, but every time she opens it, it costs me money. I had a perfectly straightforward deal with a roofer to put on a roof. That's what roofers are for, besides taking them off.

Admittedly, not many people call up a roofer and say, "I'd like my roof taken off." But, as a rule, they take off the old one before they put on the new one. OK?

That's when the Old Battleaxe opened her mouth. "What about the insulation?" She wouldn't know an insulation if it bit her on the kneecap, but she has this subconscious desire to be an engineer.

The roofer is a fine fellow, but he wasn't going to argue with a lady. He agreed that you can't have too much insulation. Then he said, "I guess you'd want a couple of louvres?" I just nodded, numbly. A couple of art museums? Fine. Might as well go for the works.

There. I've disposed of my wife, and I feel better already. The blood is beginning to recede from my head and go back to its normal channels.

But I have a few other people to dispose of, so let's get on with it. How about Coca-Cola? I can feel the blood mounting again.

Perhaps it's a mistake taking on both my wife and Coca-Cola in the same column. They are both undisposible, if not undispendible. But my wife is much more formidable.

Anyway. There is this fellow, Donald Burwash, who works for Coca-Cola Ltd. He is a pouncer. Not a bouncer, which we don't need when we're dealing with soft drinks, but a pouncer.

Whenever he sees the word Coke written with a small "c", he pounces. He doesn't get hysterical, but he does get a bit stuffy.

He pounced on a column of mine recently in which the sacrilegious word was used twice with a small "c". Two of the more than 100 papers using this column sent me along his hurt letter of protest. Hi, Harry Stemp of the Lake Simcoe Advocate, and Hi, Mrs. Brebner of the Meaford Express.

I hope old Burwash didn't write the same letter to all the other editors. Knowing weekly editors, I'm sure, if he did, that most of the letters wound up in the trash-can.

I won't bore you with brother Burwash's whole letter, which was almost identical in both cases (sorry, Donald), because it is a very boring letter. But here's a sample:

"Coke" distinguishes and identifies only the product of this Company (large "c") and we must of necessity be diligent in safeguarding it against improper use lest inadvertently, it loses its distinctiveness and significance."

How about that? "Of necessity"? "Diligent in safeguarding"? "Inadvertently"? That language is straight out of a novel by Dickens.

And do you think the word "Coke" is distinctive and significant? Lest you should, inadvertently, think otherwise, pray do not be deceived by the obtuse ramifications of the unholy and insidious media. How's that? I can write that stuff myself.

Oh, well, Burwash old boy, it takes all kinds. But you're getting there, kid. On June 12, you were Assistant Secretary at Coca-Cola. On June 21, you were Secretary. It must be that magnificent, Churchillian prose style.

In the meantime, is it all right if I burn a little coke in my fireplace? Or should I just cool off and have a Pepsi?

Potpourri of Pests

Each year the offices of the Ministry of Natural Resources receive numerous, calls from anxious landowners, about insects or diseases on their trees. Last year in Lindsay Forest District, a total of 1,270 "Bug" calls and field inspections were made to private properties. In each case, the problem was identified and control measures suggested.

Generally speaking, the pest involved can be identified on the site, or in the case of an extremely wide-spread infestation of some particular insect such as the Cedar Leaf Miner, the tree owner's description is all that is necessary to recommend a control by telephone.

When an uncommon insect or disease is the trouble, the field men will take samples and have identification made at our forest insect and pathology laboratories at Maple or the Federal government laboratories at Sault Ste. Marie. This information is forwarded to the landowners who can then take the necessary control measures. A brief description of the insects that we are currently being asked about follows:

REDHEADED PINE SAWFLY - NEODIPRION LECONTEI

Host tree - prefer red pine - have been found on white pine, larch, scots and jack pine. DESCRIPTION: Larvae - 22/25 mm. long, reddish brown head, body - yellowish white, with six rows of black spots, feeding August to October, prefer trees 15 feet tall.

Control: Pick from tree and drop into Kerosene or similar liquid or spray with a stomach or contact poison.

FALL WEBWORM HYPHANTIA CUNEA

Host trees - Ash, manitoba maple, flowering crab, cherry, and many other shade and forest trees.

Description: Larvae when grown, about 25 mm., are greenish or pale yellow in colour with a broad dark stripe down the back with a yellow stripe on each side. The body is covered with tufts of long ray or reddish hairs which are rooted in orange or black tubercles. The conspicuous webs are formed in August and usually enclose most of the foliage on the limb they occupy.

Control: Remove web and caterpillars from tree and destroy.

UGLY NEST CATERPILLAR ARCHIPS CERASIVORANUS

Host trees - Prefers choke and black cherry but will attack many other hardwoods.

Description: Mature caterpillars 20/23 mm. long, yellow body with black head. Nests are constructed by webbing leaves and twigs together, enlarging nest as feeding progresses.

Control: Same as for fall webworm.

WALNUT CATERPILLAR DATANA INTEGERRIMA

Host tree - Walnut - will attack butternut or hickory.

Description: On full grown larvae, the body is black with yellowish longitudinal stripes; covered with long, dirty gray hairs.

Control: Since the caterpillar colony travels and feeds as a group, it is often quite easy to remove them with a gloved hand when they move to limbs or trunk to molt, or apply a contact or stomach insecticide.

The aforementioned are just a few of the insect pests that are showing up at this time of year.

If you have any insect problems on your trees or require further information on the insects mentioned, contact the Ministry of Natural Resources, 322 Kent Street West, Lindsay, Ontario K9V 2Z9.

The Burleigh Road

In this year of 1974 it would be of interest to take a look at the early Colonization Roads of Haliburton County in their Centennial year celebrations. With this in mind I have found through research on early Government books and documents the following brief history:-

THE BURLEIGH ROAD:- In the year 1867 the Commissioner of Roads reports:- From Burleigh Rapids in Burleigh, to the Monck Road line in Cardiff about 38 miles. About 34 miles have been made a very fair road, except 6 or 7 miles through Burleigh where it cannot be made good without thorough macadamizing. 20 miles from the starting point the land is tolerably fair, and some respectable advance is made in settlement. Cost about $20,000.00. This road as a Colonization road like the Addington and Frontenac has been very injudiciously located.

In the year 1868 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - Operations commenced on this line about the same time as upon the Monck, and were vigorously pushed forward under the able management of Mr. Graham until the beginning of this month, when they were closed with the following results:- The Burleigh Road is now completed to into intersection with the Monck Road, in the township of Cardiff. The portion constructed this year consists of about 4½ miles. This road may be considered a tolerably good colonization road, with the exception of a portion where certain crossways require surface adzing. This section was neglected to be finished during the season of 1866. Mr. Graham received instructions to complete the work this fall, but a heavy fall of snow suddenly coming prevented its accomplishment. The "Burleigh Rocks" section, also spoken of in a former report, will need special attention another year, unless the road is changed from that locality, which of course I have formerly recommended. Besides the completion of the Burleigh Road as above described, Mr. Graham has opened about 4½ miles of the Monck Road to right and left of the intersection above spoken of, and about 40 chains further upon the west side is chopped, logged and grubbed. Average cost of road per mile, $430.00. Total expenditure $3,869.69.

In the year 1869 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - Some necessary repairs of crossways, which had been burnt or broken down, have been done on this road.

In the year 1870 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - Some general repairs have been made this season, (chiefly upon the southern part,) on this road. The Government appropriated the sum of $500.00 towards this object and the Municipality a like sum, while the overseer reports an expenditure in excess of the above amounts of $307.39. Total expenditure by Department $500.00.

In the year 1873 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - This road has been repaired generally throughout its entire length about 42 miles. Of course these repairs have been somewhat superficial, owing to the great length of road passed over. The object has been to render the road passable throughout, and as considerable damage has been done through fires consuming crossways from the Monck Road intersection southward, a considerable portion of the repairs referred to consisted of renewing those structures. The total expenditure on the road this year is $1,408.76.

In the year 1874 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - General repairs have been made on the Burleigh Road, commencing at the Burleigh Bridge, and extending northwards towards the Monck Road intersection. No final report of the extent of the work has yet been received. There has been expended on account $600.00.

In the year 1877 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - Repaired from Apsley P.O. northward 18 miles, also some slight repairs at a point 5 miles south of Apsley. Expenditure $993.87.

In the year 1878 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - A small expenditure has been made on this road between Burleigh Bridge and Apsley P.O. Some of the worst defects in the road over this distance (23 miles) have been repaired. Expenditure $349.90.

In the year 1879 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - 16 miles of this line from Monck Road southward have been partially repaired. The work consisted of repair of broken crossways, grading and drainage. Expenditure $769.10.

In the year 1880 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - Beginning at a point known as Burleigh Falls, these repairs were made northward over about 12 miles of the road. This distance is said to be very permanently improved. Expenditure $523.10.

In the year 1881 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - 10 miles of this road were repaired, namely from Apsley southerly. The bush fires did serious damage in this case also, destroying a traffic which could not be resumed till one large bridge and some smaller ones were rebuilt. These latter repairs were at the northerly end of the road and extended over 2 miles, making a total of 12 miles repaired. Expenditure $756.11.

In the year 1882 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - Repairs were made 2 miles north and 2 miles south from the Monck Road, making 4 miles and again between Apsley and a point 7 miles north, making in all 11 miles of repairs. Expenditure $942.95.

In the year 1883 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - These repairs were begun about 2 miles north of Burleigh Falls, and extended northerly 16 miles. A bridge was also built over Burnt River, 148 feet long and reported as a very good structure. Expenditure $720.89.

In the year 1884 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - 7½ miles repaired from Apsley northerly, and 2 miles of the southern portion, making 9½ miles repaired for the expenditure.

In the year 1885 the comments were as follows:- BURLEIGH ROAD - Repaired from its intersection with the Monck Road to Anstruther Road about 5 miles. Expenditure $399.61.

The Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts is working with Sir Sandford Fleming College to provide residential facilities for Haliburton School of Fine Arts summer students on a 24-acre site leased at a nominal charge from the Haliburton County Board of Education. Located at the west side of Haliburton Village on the Lake Kashagawigamog chain, the units including the one shown here, were erected as a class project by carpentry students from the college's retraining division. It is expected the first phase, including site services, will be completed by the summer of 1975 at an estimated cost of $42,800. Plans call for accommodation for 50 summer school students by 1978. Total enrolment this year may reach 400.

The Mountain Folk

a serial by Eileen Caines

Meredith found herself drawn in particular to one young woman, and her two little twins. Sue-Anne was tiny, eyes dark and soft. Like a young doe, Meredith thought.

Her speech, like all the mountaineer's quaint and old fashioned. "Ifen you can be a learnin my two youngens to write their names, proper like, I'd take it right kindly Miss". So young, Meredith thought, not more than twenty five, yet the twins were seven.

She was to find early marriage here a common practice. A girl of fourteen was considered mature enough to be "a settlin down", making a good home, for her man.

By the time the two weeks of "innoculation" were up, Meredith knew she was going to stay the summer. Beyond that, she did not allow herself to think.

She went to the school one morning, to prepare it for "opening" day. She had gone to the spring and carried a pail of water. Heating it on the box-stove, she was about to begin cleaning windows.

In the open door strode a short, rather stout man. A shock of unruly reddish hair hung across his forehead. His greeting to Meredith was, "Hm-mm, so you're the young lady I've been hearing so much about. Well, by the look of you, a puff or two of wind from the top of old baldy mountain up there, will blow you clean to kingdom come."

This was Meredith's introduction to Dr Matt. He sat down on top of one of the wooden desks, and proceeded to talk, all the while giving her keen looks, from sharp, grey blue eyes. "You'll get along alright, as long as you take them as they are Miss. Don't try to change their ways. Remember going to any kind of school will be as strange for them, as they will be to you. If one of them comes to school with a bag of leeks slung round the neck, and tells you it's to cure some ailment, leave it be."

He explained even for him, born here and one of their own, it was hard to try and change the old ways. Remedies handed down for generations were still thought to be better than many of his "high falutin" ideas. His parting words were, "good luck Miss." As he left, Meredith thought him a real "diamond in the rough."

Returning to her cabin later that afternoon, Stan met her on the path. There was to be a dance next evening, he told her, a sort of get acquainted party, in her honour.

She gathered it would be a "testing time" for her. She decided she would not wear an expensive party dress, but chose instead a simple gathered skirt and blouse.

The dance was held in a big barn like building. Meredith was surprised at the talent these mountain men displayed, with fiddle and guitar. Also many home made musical instruments. Old ballads, hundreds of years old were sung.

It was left to her and Stan to "lead off", the dancing. After, she found herself whirled round and round, to old time fiddle music. One man after another claimed his chance to dance with school "marm". Though the fast stepping tempo left her breathless, Meredith found the men courteous and gentle.

She was glad she had chosen to wear the skirt and blouse, so as not to seem overdressed. The simple costumes of the shy, quiet hill women showed evidence of many washings.

The morning after the dance, Meredith had just finished her coffee, when her first visitor arrived. "I'm Sadie Honne, Miss, don't reckon you remember, but I seed you last night. Here's a little somethin fer yer." She handed Meredith a tin plate of freshly baked biscuits, still warm.

At intervals of ten to twenty minutes as the morning passed, the women came. Soon the small cabin was overflowing. As each lady arrived, Meredith was handed a gift. From flowers to jars of fruit and pickles. At her flustered thanks they replied "T'aint nothin Miss."

She realized this was their quaint, but warm and beautiful way of accepting her. Her heart was filled with gratitude and love for these simple unpretentious people. Within herself she vowed to give them whatever help, in warmth and kindness it was in her power to do.

As each one left, Meredith was invited to "Come and set a spell." Clearly a return visit from her was expected.

The ladies were no more than out of sight, when a jubilant Stan arrived. Picking her up, and swinging her around the cabin in a half dance step, he exclaimed, "I knew it, I told you, you sure are the girl I thought. Last night when you had the sensitivity to dress simply for the party, really clinched it in my mind, and from the calls you've had this morning, others think so too."

The first few days of school Meredith devoted to getting to know the children. Instructing them in the "form" of school, seating arrangement etc. The children were shy, timid, but bright and eager to learn.

She found herself thinking that they were teaching her, as much as she taught them. Their old-fashioned, courteous manners delighted her. Perhaps the outside world might consider them ignorant and uneducated, but in no way uncouth.

The thing that amazed her most, about these mountain folk, was their cleanliness. Their homes and clothing, as well as their bodies, shone with diligent use of soap and water. To be clean here, she knew, meant work. Water had to be carried, from well or spring. Soap was home made, in most cases.

One bright sunny morning, Meredith was reflecting she had been in the mountains only a month and a half. Yet it seemed to her as if she had been here always. She realized her past life held no real meaning, only since coming here had she really lived.

Writing these thoughts, in a letter to her Mother, Meredith was interrupted by Stan's knock. "It's a lovely Saturday," he greeted her. "Come with me, and visit Granny Birke whom you have not met." Granny Birke, Stan explained was nearly ninety and "sharp as a cricket." She was also great for reading fortunes in your palm. All the mountain people "set right good store", by Granny's fortune telling.

"And you," Meredith teased, "do you believe in fortune telling?" Stan grinned, "Let's just say Granny is old, and very wise. Let her get a good look at you, and she can sum up your character in your face."

"Oh," Meredith teased, "so it's a character reference you want of me." "Your character I can see for myself," he answered smiling. Then his voice grave, he went on. "Perhaps if you stay here long enough, I'll tell you what I really want." Meredith flushed, her heart beating fast. She did not answer, and they went on.

Granny Birke, her long gown sweeping the floor, met them at her door. She was a tiny, bent over creature, white hair done up in a bun. Her eyes were dark as night, snapping with pleasure at their visit.

"Come in, come in," she cried, "Stan boy, ye've been neglectin me. And the purty young leddy, why she's pert, real pert."

The next two hours, were the most pleasant, and interesting Meredith had spent for a long time. Granny was, as Stan had said "sharp as a cricket." Her snapping black eyes were everywhere, bright with intelligence, and love of life.

"Ye ken girl," she said once, speaking of Meredith's coming to the mountains, "there must be changes, I've allus known that. But don't be a tryin to rush em. Life is good here, and the "outside," with it's worldliness, and pitfalls for the youngens will come soon enough." She sighed, "eh, it'll come an I'm thinkin these peaceful mountains, ll niver be the same."

She was showing Meredith the latest quilt she was making, the beautiful stitches of the "wedding ring" pattern. Suddenly Meredith exclaimed in excitement, "Granny, do all the women here, make such lovely quilts?" "But o course girl, we un's all make our own bed kivers, allus heve," Granny answered. "But here, thets only one pattern, let me show you."

She went in her bedroom, calling Stan to help. He carried out a wooden chest, filled with quilts, smelling of rosewood. One beautiful design after another, she showed Meredith, as she lovingly lifted each quilt from the chest.

"Granny, these quilts can bring money, lots of money," Meredith said. "Why there are people where I come from, who would pay a high price, for hand-done work lik this."

She turned to Stan, saying that if the quilts were on display at the Farnum's, tourists would be crazy to buy them. "Think of it," she cried. "Think what this could mean to the women here." "This way, the could buy the things they need, to make life pleasanter, and yet it would not need to change or intrude on our way of life." Unconsciously she used the words, "our way of life."

Stan, looking at her with admiration, agreed, saying he himself should have thought of this. Meredith, turning to Granny, winked and admonished, "men"! Granny seemed to be astonished that women on the "outside" would want to buy the quilts.

"Do ye mean to tell me, girl, women out yonder don't make their own. Same as we un's?"

Meredith assured her very few did this, and those who could were paid handsomely for their work. Not only quilts, but knitting and crochet work, commanded a high price.

"My goodness," the old lady marveled. "We un's can all do thet. If what ye say is true, we'll all be rich as Midas."

A meeting of all the women was arranged for next evening. To be held in the "meetin house", the building where the welcoming dance for Meredith had been held. Stan agreed to go from house to house, and inform the women, and to bring Granny.

Next evening, Meredith was glad to have Granny with her, for moral support, when she saw the number of women gathered together. With Granny's help she explained to them her idea. Like Granny at first, they were astonished that the labour they had done all their lives, for need, could now bring them financial aid.

And so it was agreed. Some of the handiwork was displayed at the diner, Meredith had some shipped to her Mother, to be displayed in her own home.

As the summer wore on, there was no doubt of the success of the "business" venture. The demands were almost more than the women could supply, once they had sold all they had on hand.

Stan was the happiest, proudest man on the mountain, he told her. Not only because of the success of the women's venture, but it seemed to be an incentive to the men, as well. They worked harder, cut more logs, sold more timber.

Meredith had been longing to bring up another idea, she had in mind. Stan's words gave her the opportunity. "Stan, sometimes it's easier for someone like myself, just coming on the scene, so to speak, than for someone like you, who has lived here always, to see the potential of talent."

He looked at her inquiringly, "yes, I can see what you mean." "But go on, tell me what you are thinking."

She explained to him, how amazed and delighted she was, with the hand-crafted furniture in her cabin. "I know you made it yourself," she said. "There are others here, who could do this also, and people would be as willing to buy beautiful furniture like it, as they are for the ladies handiwork. I believe it could turn into a very lucrative business."

Stan whistled softly, and stared at her for long moments. "Unless," she ventured lamely, waiting for his answer, "you feel it would bring to many changes here, to fast?"

Stan whooped with laughter. Gathering her in his arms, he kissed her fervently. "You never cease to astonish me," he said. "I only wonder why I've been such an idiot, not to realize these things for myself. I guess it's like you say, I'm standing too close to see."

Disengaging herself from his arms, she smiled and told him if he agreed, then he had better arrange another trip to the "meetin house." This time for the men.

She did not tell him she had more ideas, such as a "qualified" school teacher. She would wait to see if this latest scheme proved as well as she was sure it would. If so, then the mountain people would be financially able to pay a real teacher's wages.

Something that worried Meredith, was the fact that although the small children attended school, no child past the age of twelve came. She realized this was because the mountain folk considered it fine for the "yougens", to learn to write, and add a little. As for the older ones, well, a girl of fourteen would soon be a married woman.

However, as Granny had put it, "Changes ere bound to come." If they were to improve their living conditions, and deal, however little, with the world beyond these mountains, then some education was necessary. Even, thought Meredith, if it were only for business reasons.

She did not want to see them exploited, or cheated, and Stan could not possibly, as time went on, attend to all their business matters.

Stan set up a "carpentry" shop, and those men talented, in this way, went to work with zeal. The Farnum's did their part by erecting a "showing" shed. Soon the orders for the polished gleaming, hand-crafted furniture were coming faster than even Stan and Meredith had anticipated. By fall orders were being shipped by rail, to all parts of the state.

One lovely evening Stan and Meredith watched the sun go down. Its rays turned the coloured leaves to flame. She knew the time had come to speak her thoughts.

His face grave, Stan listened to her reasons for the need of a "proper" school teacher. Some time passed, before he spoke. When he did, his voice was low. "And you, Meredith, will you leave us then?"

Meredith's thoughts were churning. Leave these beloved mountains, these people she had come to love, and feel her own? "Oh no!" she cried, "I never want to leave, but couldn't I help you with the paper work, help you look after the business end of things, for the men and women who cannot write?"

Stan's face was bright, his eyes shone with a new and dazzling brilliance. "Yes my darling," he said, "You can help me much more than that! Meredith, sweetheart, I love you, please won't you stay with me forever, and be my wife?"

Meredith's voice was unsteady as she answered, "Oh Stan, yes yes, I want that so very much."

Later Meredith stood at the window of her little cabin, and watched the big, bright moon rise, high over the hills. She would teach the children, she was thinking, until a suitable replacement for her could be found. Then her life, as the wife of a mountain man, would begin. Her heart was filled with joy, and peace. Changes would come yes, but as long as the mountain people retained their love, pride and loyalty, for their own ways, nothing would change to much.

Gems of Truth

UNVARNISHED TRUTH

When the Bible says that "Christ died for our sins" 1 Cor. 15:3, it reveals truth about ourselves that are not just empty words. In these five words we see the fact of man's lost condition and God's method of restoring broken fellowship with the Creator.

The Scriptures are very clear on what it says about sin. It presents sin as God sees it, which makes a universal estranged creature coming far short of the holiness required to be received into His glorious presence. Since sin is a well established fact with God, where can one go to escape it? Even the heathen know about it and they offer sacrifices, trying to appease the wrath of an angry god against whom they know they have sinned.

The sad thing about sin is that it is often not recognized in our modern civilization and people carry on as if it did not exist. Mankind generally does not know how terrible sin really is. If it could be erased from the universe, there would be a Utopia indeed. The Word declares that such a day is coming, but until it appears in Jehovah God's own time, sin will continue to make havoc of lives, homes and nations.

Romans 3:30 states that "by the law is the knowledge of sin" and apparently this generation needs a refresher course on the declaration of God's law. The law declares God's holiness and His hatred of sin. It is a very difficult thing to convince goodly people of their true position before the Almighty. People are not sinners because they practise sin but we are such by position. All are of the seed of Adam's race, born into it not by choice but by circumstances. We did not choose to be in it. Our choice comes by being born into God's family upon the operation of the work of God the Holy Spirit on our lives.

Here is where the true Gospel does its work. The Bible contents revolve around the descendants of Adam and their lost condition and secondly around the descendants of Christ the Saviour. To one of these every person belongs. Adam's offspring is estranged from God but Christ the Lord offers a new birth into God's family to all who see their need of such restoration. Truly 1 Corinthians 15 verse 3 is the gate into that longed for family fellowship. "Christ died for our sins".

Hall's Lake News

Mrs Dorothy Vickers of Kerrobert, Saskatchewan has been paying a visit to her twin brother, Mr Thomas Weir, his wife and family on Boskung Lake. Miss Marjorie Weir is also holidaying at the family cottage with a friend.

Ken Rawlins and Miss Lesley Wadsworth of Toronto spent the long weekend with Ken's parents at Alkamali Resort. Ken entered his nice new sail boat in the Dorset Regatta on Monday and came in second in the race for his Class -- congratulations Ken!

The Edwards' wedding took place on Saturday at St. Peter's Church, Maple Lake, with a Reception following at Club 35.

A happy event took place on Sunday at the home of Mr and Mrs William Richardson when a joint celebration took place to honour the birthdays of Mrs Richardson and her Grandson Danny, with all the family present.

The Annual Bazaar and Tea held last Wednesday by the Ladies' Guild of St. Stephen's Church was very successful and the women report that well over $500.00 was realized for their efforts. The ladies work all year making articles for sale at this event and are always grateful for the response and enthusiasm from both local people and the tourists and visitors from the surrounding areas.

A lovely new red carpet has been laid in St Stephen's church, partly a gift from the Ladies Guild.

We attended a well worth-while Musicales last Thursday evening at the Forest Rangers' School (now properly called the Leslie M. Frost Natural Resources Centre) when the Bach Youth Ensemble with Mr Patrick Burroughs as Musical Director, rendered an amazingly stimulating evening of music. Approximately 28 young men and women with violins, violas, Cellos and bass instruments kept everyone enthralled with their ability and pleasing mixture of both serious and amusing repertoire of pieces. We noticed Marilyn Stouffer was there with several members of the Carnarvon Church Choir.

Last Thursday evening several local people also attended the pictures which the Rev. Andrew Hutchison and Mr Lloyd Johnson took when on their visit to the Holy Land last Spring.

In Memoriam

RIEL - In loving memory of our dear Mother, Martha, who passed away August 13, 1972.

It's lonely here without Mother, We miss you more each day. For life is not the same for us Since you were called away. It broke our hearts to lose you, But you didn't go alone. For part of us went with you. The day God called you home. Sadly missed by son Leonard, and Aileen and Grandchildren.

LA PORTE - In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Laura Mae, who passed away on August 14, 1971.

The rose still grows beyond the wall And within our hearts we'll always keep A special place for you And try to do our best As you would want us to. But you were ours, we loved you so. Dear God, take a message Tell her how much we miss her And give her all our love. Sadly missed and always remembered by husband Eddie, daughters Marilyn, Sandra, Susan, and sons, Junior, Dale, and Christopher.

FETTERLY - In loving memory of a dear sister, Violet, who passed away August 14, 1973.

She left us quietly Her thoughts unknown But she left us a memory We are proud to own. So treasure her, Lord In your garden of rest For when on earth She was one of the best. Too dearly loved to be forgotten by sisters and brothers, Greta, Verna, Merv. George and Mark.

FETTERLY - In loving memory of a dear wife and Mother Violet, who passed away August 14, 1973. One sad and lonely year has passed, Since our great sorrow fell; The shock that we received that day, No one can ever tell. God gave us strength to meet it, And courage to bear the blow; What it meant to lose her No one will ever know. It's lonely here without you, We miss you more each day; For life is not the same to us Since you were called away. You bade no one a last farewell, Not even said goodbye; You were gone before we realized, And only God knows why. Sadly missed and remembered by husband Ray and family.

STAMP - In loving memory of Clayton who passed away on August 12, 1972. No space of time, No lapse of years Can dim the treasured past. A loving memory keeps it dear Affection holds it fast. Lovingly remembered by wife Katie and family.

CRAWFORD, Bernice - In loving memory of my dear sister Bernice McKelvey who passed away two years ago August 14, 1972. Gone from us but leaving memories Death can never take away. Memories that will always linger While upon this earth we stay. Sadly missed and always remembered by sister Mildred.

McKELVEY - In loving memory of my dear Mother, Dossie, who passed away one year ago, August 14, 1973. When evening shadows are falling And I sit alone and cry. In my heart there comes a longing If you only could stop by. Friends may think that I've forgotten When at times they see me smile But they little know the heartache My heart hides all the while. Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Audrey.

LA PORTE - In loving memory of a dear sister, Laura Mae, who passed away August 14, 1971. Gone are the days we used to share, But in our hearts, you are always there. The gates of memory will never close, We miss you more than anyone knows. With tender love and deep regret, We who loved you will never forget. Sadly missed by Violet and Bob.

CRAWFORD - In loving memory of my dear sister Bernice who passed away two years ago August 14, 1972. It is not the tears at the graveside That tell how the heart is torn. But the unseen tears of after years And remembrance silently borne. Sadly missed and always remembered by sister Audrey.

In Memorium

LITTLE - In loving memory of our daughter, Kaylene Little who died so tragically on August 17, 1973 in her 28th year. The month of August again is here To me the saddest of all the year. The blow was hard, the shock severe To part with one I loved so dear. I was not there to see you die, To hold your hand or kiss goodbye But I'll remember my whole life through The last few words I had with you. Although we smile and make no fuss, No one misses her more than us. And when old times we oft recall, That's when we miss her most of all. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Woodcock.

But I think of the Mother I had. They say time heals all sorrow And helps us to forget, But time so far has only proved How much I miss you yet. Sadly missed by daughter Mildred.
